

NOLA EATERY & SOCIAL HOUSE | ARMADA BLUEBAY HOTEL

It's for those in the know. Hidden away in JLT, Nola rocks a New Orleans speakeasy vibe – think low lighting, worn leather, mismatched furniture and burnished brass. Pull up a seat at the long marble bar, lounge on a leather sofa or hang out in the leafy conservatory.

Experience some Southern hospitality.

The main menu gathers dishes from across America's southern states. Meats are cooked on the Cajun grill and served with a choice of hearty sides. Traditional seafood jambalaya is served on a hot skillet to retain the juices, while crispy cornflake chicken comes with buttery zucchini and parmesan waffles.

Nearly 29,000 portions of GuacaNola have been served up in the last 12 months. Nola's house guacamole comes with tortilla chips and is perfect for sharing before dinner.

Try a po'boy, a traditional sandwich that hails from Louisiana. At Nola, they come in five varieties, including the traditional Momma's Po'boy with slow-cooked pulled beef, and a vegan variety with bean patties.

This neighbourhood eatery is open from noon until late. Grab a coffee and a light bite during the day, or visit after hours until 3am for great food, a buzzing atmosphere and live jazz three or four times throughout the week. 🍷

DON'T MISS!

The hot cheese spinach dip – served with sourdough crostini, it's a seriously addictive dish.
